Key Findings

- Trinidad listings rely heavily on shorthand such as PDZ, PDE, and RORO.
- Critical fields like body type, fuel type, and seller type are frequently missing.
- Mileage formatting is highly inconsistent.
- Many semantic concepts are embedded inside titles instead of structured fields.
- Duplicate listings and reposting behavior are common.

Trinidad-Specific Concepts

- RORO = imported vehicle shipped via Roll-On Roll-Off.
- Foreign Used and Local Used are core market distinctions.
- Plate series codes strongly influence buyer perception.

- Terms like 'Lady Driven' and 'Transfer Included' are culturally meaningful sales signals.

Normalization Concerns

- Fuel types are inconsistently represented.
- Hybrid vehicles are sometimes labeled electric.
- Transmission and drivetrain fields are often omitted.
- Titles contain embedded metadata that should be structured separately.
